

Responding to the Needs of our World through Education, Prayer & Action

---

---

Summertime and the living is easy. . . summertime and the viewing is easy.

Dear Sisters,

In our last Info Alert (5/9/17), we recalled the Catholic Social Teaching Principles and our determination to continue to respond to God's call to do justice. Recognizing the challenge of practicing these principles, our Social Justice Team discussed the power of movies which so often help us to reflect on realities that speak to our hearts and consciences far more effectively than other forms of communication. So the Team compiled a list of film titles that you might wish to watch during the summer months and beyond.

The movies deal with themes of racism, discrimination, poverty, and heroism. As human interest stories, often based on true events, they can make you feel good about our human race. Trailers are available on the internet.

Fences
Lion
A United Kingdom
Mandela: A Long Walk to Freedom

Selma
12 Years a Slave
Django Unchained
The Butler

Hidden Figures
Free State of Jones
Lincoln
Moonlight

Hacksaw Ridge
Belle
Billy Lynn's Long Halftime Walk
The Help

On the Way to School (2015)

Living on One Dollar (2013)

~~~~~

For your perusal, our team is also providing copies of significant magazines that deal with social justice issues at our major retreat sites: namely, Stone Harbor, the Spirituality Center, and the Bryn Mawr Conference Center. Copies of Sojourners, America, and Network Connections will be placed in common areas of "sitting and waiting" for your convenience. Back and current issues will be available. Please feel free to take a magazine to share, if you find an article that might inspire or inform someone else.

Summertime and the living is easy . . . summertime and the reading is easy. . .