

Maybe: A story about endless potential

An Invitation: Imagine the figure in the story as a personification of community

Prayer:

Creator God, each day you invite us to look to this day with a “maybe,” in our minds and hearts. There is endless potential within each of us and all of us together. As we embrace our emerging future, may we never forget that together we may bring something to this planet that no one else can bring. We may be the ones to be and do what only we can, if we reach high to the sky. It is on journeys that discoveries are made.

Maybe it is up to us to help others to see the beauty in each day. Maybe we are to be the light in places where there is darkness. Maybe we are to speak up for those who can’t speak for themselves. We know that You will be with us when we face fears, when we mess things up, when we fall down, even when we fail.

May we get back up a little stronger and a little taller. May we trust that the world needs our gifts, our talents, our big ideas. Perhaps we have only scratched the surface thus far, and there is more to be discovered in what is being asked of us. The world is waiting. AMEN!

Reflection Questions: (to be shared in break-out sessions)

1. In light of who you are as a congregation, how does this story speak to your mind and heart at this time?
2. In light of the Maybe story, our present reality world reality, and your emerging future as a congregation, how would you complete this statement: MAYBE WE...
3. As you consider who you are as a congregation, what would you most like us to know about you at this time?
